PRESENTATIONS

AGENDA ITEM #8(a)
CHARLOTTE HARBOR NATIONAL ESTUARY PROGRAM

Jennifer Hecker gave a presentation about the CHNEP and water quality issues. She stated that the CHNEP looks to address four priority problems: Hydrologic Alteration, Water Quality Degradation, Fish & Wildlife Habitat Loss and Stewardship Gaps. She asked that we adopt the Biosolids Resolution that was brought to the council several months ago. Vice-Mayor Denham asked about what must happen in order to change the CHNEP’s coverage area. Ms. Hecker answered that the policy board had already approved the coverage area and name change to Coastal & Heartland National Estuary Program effective June 1, 2019. Vice-Mayor Denham asked where the funding for the CHNEP organization comes from and Ms. Hecker stated that they receive a variety of funds, including $600,000 annually from U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, also from the Florida Department of Environmental Protection and the Southwest Florida Water Management District, local governmental entities, and general public and private contributions. They’re able to provide $19 of restoration for every $1 of federal funding that they receive. Commissioner McDaniel asked the reason for the caging of seagrass. Ms. Hecker responded that when seagrass is first planted, they are not firmly rooted, and we don’t want grazers on them before they are firmly rooted. Once they are ready, the cages are removed so that the seagrass can be a food source for those animals.

Mr. James Beever explained that the RPC was one of the entities that helped to create the CHNEP and has been active with them on many projects. Commissioner Storter-Long asked why the CHNEP was moving their boundary inland toward the lake. Ms. Heckler said that the CHNEP is trying to reach the whole Caloosahatchee watershed. Commissioner Mann suggested that the RPC take another look at the Biosolids Resolution.

AGENDA ITEM #8(b)
CALUSA WATERKEEPER: A SUMMARY OF WATER QUALITY ISSUES FOR SWFL

Mr. John Cassani gave a presentation on the Calusa Waterkeeper nonprofit advocacy organization and blue-green algae. Commissioner Wilkins asked for evidence that agriculture is a contributing factor to the blue-green algae. Mr. Cassani said that in 2017, 88% of the total phosphorus loading into the lake was from agriculture. He added that it is hard to determine the effect of the best management practices. Commissioner Wilkins said that there are studies showing that water coming out of sugar facilities is cleaner than it is when it comes into the facility and asked how he could tell where the run-off water was coming from. Mr. Cassani said that a water control structure is in place and much of the loading into Lake O is from the watershed to the North. Mr. Flood said that the reservoir was never meant to be the savior of the estuary, it was intended to help the minimum flow level. Mr. Flood also stated that the District is creating a scope of work that evaluates local water quality components for the reservoir. Vice-Mayor Denham said that he feels the most important short-term step to address the watershed problem is to reevaluate laws. Commissioner Pendergrass shared that he lives inland and still sees the negative impacts from the watershed on the Lee County septic systems. Commissioner Storter-Long defended the agriculture industry saying that it cannot be blamed as the main source of runoff in the watershed, simply because it covers the largest geographic area. Mr. Cassani responded that it has been well documented over the years that agriculture indeed is a large contributor to the watershed issues.

Commissioner Taylor asked for more information on septic tanks and their influence on water degradation. Mr. Cassani said that part of the problem is that not every septic tank is the same and a lot of variables are involved in septic tanks and the water that they receive. Mr. Beever explained that generally septic tanks are a problem when they fail, when they are not properly maintained or placed, they tend to cause issues. Commissioner McDaniel asked that we add an agenda item for a future meeting on septic tanks with presentations.
AGENDA ITEM #8(c)
WATER DISCUSSION

Vice-Mayor Denham detailed some of the good work that the RPC has done on water quality in the past, but now he believed that there are too many other groups working on this issue for the RPC to be a key player. Chair Perry added that he thinks that people should pay more attention to the RPC and the positive work that they do. By working with the RPC elected officials are able to gain more insight on issues like water quality and septic tanks from a regional perspective. Vice-Mayor Denham stressed that the RPC shouldn’t try and reinvent the wheel. Commissioner McDaniel explained that the RPC is not going to be what it used to be, but there is still great value in coming together and sharing information.
